Cracow, December 1.

THe Nobility of Lithuania have at last consented that the Dyet shall be held at Warsaw; And the time of its meeting is, we are told, fixed for the 20th of February. The King intends to continue in the mean time at Zolkiew; where it's said Deputies are expected from Count Teckeley. The Envoy from the Cham of Tartary was arrived at Zolkiew, but had not, when the last Letters came from thence, had Audience of the King, so that it was not known what he had to propose.

Dantzicke, December 20. The Letters from Poland give an account, that the Moscovites have Invaded the Territories of that Crown, and have possessed themselves of two or three small places within the Dutchy of Lithuania, at the Instigation, as is believed, of the Turks with whom it's observed they have at present a very good correspondence. They likewise tell us, that the Dyet is appointed to be held at Warsaw about the middle of February, but that it will be a very short Session, the Conjuncture of Affairs requiring speedy Resolutions, to enable the King to make the necessary preparations for the next Campagne.

Naples, December 5. The Popes Gallies, after having been detained some time by the ill weather at Puzzole, parted from thence the last week; but were forced to put into Gaette, from whence they sailed again the first Instant.

Rome, December 9. The Pope continues indisposed, which is the reason that the Marquis de Brignole, Envoy Extraordinary from the Republick of Genoua, hath not yet had his Audience; but he has been several times in Conference with Cardinal Pio his first Minister. The Popes Gallies arrived at Civita Vecchia on Saturday last; and most of the Officers are come hither; They have lost during this Campagne 100 Soldiers and 400 Seamen and Slaves. Cardinal Fignatelli Legat of Bologne is very ill.

Genoua, December 10. On Tuesday last arrived here eight Gallies of the Squadrons of Naples, Sicily and Sardinia; They came from Palamos in Catalonia the 30th of the last month, being then 15 in number, but were separated by bad weather; And as yet we have no news of the other seven; nor of the Gallies of this State, and those commanded by the Duke of Tursis which parted from Palamos some days before the Squadrons of Naples, Sicily and Sardinia. With these Gallies arrived here the Marquis de Cogolludo General of the Gallies of Naples, who was Complemented on board his Gally by four Gentlemen on the part of the Senate; and is now lodged in the Palace of the Prince of Doria. This City being in great want of Wood the Senate have caused four great Barks to be fitted out, carrying 12 Guns and 120 Men each, who are to sail to morrow for Corsica, under the command of Captain Carattino, and in their Company will go 12 other Barks with Merchandize. The French Privateers are very busie on this Coast, and have taken several Vessels belonging to this State. This week sailed the Hanniball for Legborn, and the Essex Merchant for Marseilles. The Crown, the Happy Return, and the Mary and David are ready to sail.

Genoua, December 16. Three of the Spanish Gallies which were sep rated in the Gulf are arrived in this Port from Corsica, where they left four of their Company, the rest with the Gallies of this State having bore away for Port Mahon. The Count de Melgar, Governor of Milan is come hither to make a Visit to the Marquis de Cogolludo, or rather, as some think, to consult with the governing Men here concerning their present Affairs. This week arrived here the America from Marseilles.

Venice, December 16. We have no Letters from Dalmatia since those which gave an account that the Troops of the Republick had taken Naria, a small Fort near Narenta. The Sieur Amelot, the French Ambassador, has taken his leave of the Senate, and will part from hence the next week. Signior Molino, according to our last Advices, continued to Cruise with the Ships under his command in the Archipelago.

Vienna, December 20. On Wednesday last Prince Francis of Neubourg received his Investure from the Emperor as Bishop of Breslaw in Silesia; And his Imperial Majesty having likewise Conferred upon him the Government of that Province, He at the same time took the usual Oath. The Emperor has written in very pressing terms to all the Princes and States of the Empire to represent to them the present Juncture of Affairs, and to require from them an assistance suitable thereunto; And his Imperial Majesty is sending the Count de Martinitz to sollicite Subsidies from the Princes of Italy. The Pope, it's said, has written to the King of Poland and to the Republick of Venice, earnestly exhorting them to make such preparations for the next Campagne as may enable them to satisfie the expectation all Christendom has from them. The great Cannon which the Elector of Bavaria made use of in the Siege of Buda, are brought hither again, where they are to remain till the next Campagne. The Baron Zierowski is gone for Poland to assist at the Dyet of that Kingdom. The Prince of Lichtenstein has done Homage to the Emperor for the Dutchy of Jagerstorff in Silesia. Count Teckeley, it's said, has had the confidence to signifie to the Emperor, That if his Imperial Majesty desire it, he will take it upon him to procure a Peace between his Imperial Majesty and the Grand Signior his Alley. They write from Hungary that General Sebultz in his late retreat
